

Marine life at the Opera House

In 2019, the Sydney Opera House and the University of Technology Sydney installed an artificial reef around Bennelong Point to enhance biodiversity in the area. Over time, the metal habitat structures will encrust with seaweed and sea life, providing a home for native fish species.

Share your colouring with us!

Ask your parent to upload and tag #sydneyoperahouse on Facebook

Project assisted by the NSW Government through its Environmental Trust

