

David Walliams – At Home Activities

Activity 1: Naughty Stories

This activity is based on the Sydney Opera House Creative Learning program for schools.

Some characters in David Walliams' books are a bit prickly, naughty or sometimes down right evil!

In this exercise you have to tell stories that are naughty; super naughty stories!

You can do this with a friend, parent or sibling. If you are alone, you can write your story and make a short movie to show your family!

Start with listing all the bad things your character does. Give them a name and then make a story in which they do terrible and wicked things.

The exercise is simple and fun.

Take turns telling each other a made up a story about a truly naughty character. Remember that the story has to have a beginning, middle and end.

Points for the most naughty!
